

dailypress.com/news/dp-local_ednotebook_1019oct19,0,6088060.story

dailypress.com

EDUCATION NOTEBOOK

Education Notebook: New Horizons partners with public works for program

By Cathy Grimes, Samieh Shalash and Jennifer L. Williams

10:28 PM EDT, October 18, 2009

This month, New Horizons Career and Technical Education Center started its partnership with the Hampton Roads Public Works Academy cadet program, according to a New Horizons principal.

Twenty students were selected to be in the first group for the two-year program, said Butler Farm campus Principal David Creamer. They will attend classes twice a month and be required to complete a paid summer internship, which will give them a certificate and qualifications for employment with public works.

Cathy Grimes, Samieh Shalash and Jennifer L. Williams cover education for the Daily Press. Grimes can be reached at 247-4758 or at cgrimes@dailypress.com. Shalash can be reached at 247-4537 or at sshalash@dailypress.com. Williams can be reached at 247-4644 or at jwilliams@dailypress.com

Copyright © 2009, Newport News, Va., Daily Press